

Matriarchal Elephant Herds

Elephant herds are matriarchal. The eldest female elephant is in charge of a group consisting of other related females and young males. All of the females offer protection and care for others in the herd.

If you were an elephant, which females in your immediate and extended family would help to care for you? Write their names in the boxes below.

